THE BIG DIG — Heavy equipment, subcontracted by Universe Technologies, Inc., begins the removal of 11,000 cubic yards of soil under the Installation Restoration Program at the old Fire Fighting Training area at Katy Field last week. Memorial Hall, Surface Warfare Officers School Command, is in the distant background. Cornelia Mueller, environmental scientist, said Phase I, behind the Marine Corps Detachment building, will include removal of three mounds of soil, fill rock, and debris; and Phase II will include below grade soil removal across the site next year. Phase I is scheduled to be completed by the end of October.

Services planned for Beirut Marines

PORTSMOUTH — The Marine Corps Detachment (MARDET) at Naval Station Newport will participate in Portsmouth Beirut Marine Memorial services tomorrow, Oct. 23, at 2 p.m. at the Portsmouth Historical Society building on East Main Road.

The annual ceremony specifically honors nine Rhode Island Marines who were among 241 killed in October 1983 in Lebanon.

Lt. Col. Andy Solgere, a student from the Naval War College, will be guest speaker, and the service will be conducted by Capt. Felipe Paez, Commanding Officer, MARDET.

Two enlisted Marines from MARDET will place a wreath at the stone tablet which bears the names of the nine men.

The Instructor and Inspector (I&I) U.S. Marine Corps Staff, Providence, will provide the color guard, and Navy Band Northeast's Brass Quintet will provide appropriate music.

Representatives of the Col. William E. "Rich" Higgins Detachment, Newport County of the Marine Corps League, the American Legion and VFW Posts will attend. After the services, light refreshments will be served.

Washington executive to address NAACP dinner

The Newport County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) will hold its 85th annual Awards Dinner on Saturday, Oct. 30, at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, Goat Island, Newport.

The guest speaker will be Hilary O. Shelton, Director, Washington Bureau, NAACP. Tickets are $50 per person. For tickets or more information, contact the NAACP office at 847-5570 or Victoria Johnson at 846-3967.

CFC launched at NAVSTA, to reach all hands

By JOY CHRISTMAS

NAVSTA Public Affairs Staff

The 2004 Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) is underway at Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport. This year's theme is "Every 1 of Us."

Formally started in 1961 under President John F. Kennedy from office coffee can collections for local charities, CFC is one of the most benevolent fund drives in the world. With the exception of Navy-Marine Corps Relief, CFC is the only fundraising activity authorized in the federal workplace.

The annual fundraiser has donated financial assistance to nearly 1,500 local, national and international charitable organizations and non-profit organizations with a focus to feed the hungry, shelter the homeless, harbor the battered, protect the environment and research for cures for deadly and crippling diseases.

Of the national contribution of $249 million, military and civilian personnel at NAVSTA and its tenant commands answered the call with thousands in contributions. More than $750,000 was contributed in the Rhode Island area.

Lt. Rodney Smith, the 2004 CFC coordinator for Rhode Island Area Military Commands, said the goal 100 percent personnel contact.

"Everyone that contributes to CFC, no matter how small, will be helping someone who may not be able to help themselves," said Smith. "There are so many great organizations supporting great causes. You can give to the general fund, or designate your contribution to go to a specific organization that may have special significance to you."

Departmental workers have been appointed and will distribute donation materials to all personnel in their workspaces.

CFC 2004 will continue through November.

Holiday food drive underway base-wide

The holidays are upon us once again. And in keeping with the spirit of the season of giving, Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport and its tenant commands are in the process of their annual base-wide holiday food drive. The donated items will be made into food baskets and distributed to needy military families during the holiday season.

All commands and activities are welcome to participate. Point of contact is Command Master Chief Bill Stoller, NAVSTA Command Master Chief, NAVSTA Headquarters, Building 690, 841-4017.

Some frequently asked questions:

Q. What is the time period for the food drive?

A. Now through Dec. 12.

Q. Who can collect donations?

A. All Naval Station codes and departments, as well as tenant commands, are asked to maintain the collection boxes, and advise the program contacts for pick-ups.

Q. Who is eligible to receive a box?

A. Any military family member in need.

Q. How are needy families identified?

A. Referrals should be made via command master chiefs. Please submit names by close of business on Nov. 19 (for Thanksgiving) and Dec. 17 (for Christmas).

Q. What are the dates and pickup location for the baskets?

A. Baskets will be available for pickup at the Chapel of Hope on Tuesday, Nov. 23 (for Thanksgiving), and all day Tuesday and Wednesday Dec. 21 and 22 (for Christmas).

Q. What items are being collected?

A. Monetary donations for turkeys and other perishables will be accepted. Please make checks payable to "Caring and Sharing Fund," and in the memo block of the check, please write "Holiday Food Basket." Submit all cash and checks through your command master chiefs.

Suggested non-perishables items could include:

- Canned cranberries, yams, vegetables, pumpkin, condiments and fruit pie fillings
- Packaged nuts
- Boxed pie crust mix, sugar, flour, hot roll mix, gravy mix, dessert mixes (cakes, frosting, Jell-O, etc.)

- Stuffing mix
- Spices
- Disposable aluminum baking pans

Please, do not donate perishable or glass-packaged items.

Food collection boxes will be located throughout the Naval Station and its tenant commands.

SECNAV recognizes NUWC top executive

The Naval Undersea Warfare Center (NUWC) technical director has been recognized by the Secretary of the Navy with the highest honorary award the Navy can confer on a Department of the Navy civilian employee.

Rear Adm. Stephen Johnson, NUWC Commander, presented Richard Bonin with the Distinguished Civilian Service Award during a recent ceremony at NUWC Headquarters.

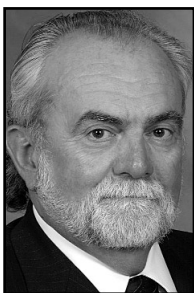

A Newport resident and member of the government's Senior Executive Service, Bonin was recognized for his leadership and managerial contributions to the Navy.

His citation was signed by Secretary of the Navy Gordon England

According to eligibility criteria, the Navy Distinguished Civilian Service Award is to be granted only to those employees who have distinguished themselves through contributions of major significance and/or extraordinary service to the Navy.

The achievements or service must be truly exceptional when measured against the position requirements of the individual and should far exceed the contributions and service of others with comparable responsibilities. Further, the award should be reserved for contributions which are so unusual and/or significant that recognition at the Secretary of the Navy level is deserved.

Ready to start a second career?

"Buzz" Buse, director, Officer Placement Service for the Military Officers Association of America (MOAA), will lead a free seminar today from 9 to 11:30 a.m. in Perry Hall Auditorium on "Marketing Yourself for a Second Career."

He is an expert on transitioning from military to civilian employment and welcomes officers, senior noncommissioned officers, and spouses.

In his presentation, Buse introduces the audience to the realities of the competition in the civilian job market; the perceptions civilian employers have of military personnel; a plan for the job search; tips for strengthening the resume; networking plans; preparing for and conducting a successful interview and salary negotiations and benefit packages.

The lecture is presented annually at more than 150 U.S. military bases worldwide. It is up-to-date, hard-hitting, and sharply focused. It has a reputation as a "must attend" for those two to three years or less from separation or retirement.

Military members and their spouses are invited to attend. All attendees will receive a free copy of the publication, Marketing Yourself for a Second Career.

Put on costume, join Fun Run

Dress up in your favorite Halloween costume for the "Halloween Fun Run and Walk" on Friday, Oct. 29, at 11:45 a.m.

Instructor, Officer Indoctrination School

Rapidly emerging from the shadow of its long-time reputation as "Knife and Fork School," the Officer Indoctrination School (OIS) is demonstrating the quality of its rigorous military training one graduating class at a time.

The 36 students in Class 04090 will graduate today at 9 a.m. in ceremonies in Capt. Howard Kay Hall, Naval Station Newport.

Unlike most Navy officer accessions programs including the Officer Candidate School and the Reserve Officer Training Corps, OIS has just weeks, not months or years, to prepare newly commissioned professional civilians and prior enlisted for the demanding duties and responsibilities of a naval officer.

During the academic phase of training, OIS teaches naval orientation, military law, personnel administration, Navy policies, and naval leadership to physicians, dentists, nurses, scientists, allied health care providers, health care administrators, lawyers and nuclear power instructors.

Learning is not limited to the classroom, however.

As part of the "leadership laboratory," students also participate in physical training, close order drill, room and personnel inspections, and company leadership activities.

OIS is composed of a diverse staff of surface warfare officers, Medical Service and Nurse Corps officers, civilian administrative personnel and a cadre of chief petty officers.

This dedicated staff has worked tirelessly over the last two years to improve the quality of training at OIS. As part of the realignment with the Naval Services Training Command (NSTC), which was created in 2003 to organize a majority of Navy accessions programs under one command, OIS has evolved dramatically with the introduction of several "best practices" from other training commands.

'The Save a Shipmate Scenario' was held at the Fire Fighting School as part of a Battle Stations drill.

These include a 12-hour "Battle Stations" evolution focused on leadership and teamwork, and the use of Recruit Division Commanders (RDCs) to instill military indoctrination and bearing.

OIS has also developed many of its own initiatives to increase "rigor" in its five-week curriculum. After losing a week of the former six-week course in January 2003 because of Navy-wide adjustments to leadership courses, the OIS curriculum was restructured to deliver better training with the use of adult education principles and an emphasis on collaborative "team learning."

Each week of the program has a focus and every day is intense. The PROGRAM, Page 9

first week is for in-processing and orientation. The second week provides a broad view of the Navy's mission, history and organization. Students also receive special training in "drown-proofing," the third class swim test, damage control, and shipboard firefighting.

The third week is dedicated to professional and career development, with a day devoted to each individual specialty.

In the fourth week, student performance is assessed academically, physically and professionally. This phase of the indoctrination training concludes with Battle Stations, the OIS capstone event.

During the final week, the students attend a five-day basic leadership course, facilitated by OIS staff to share experiences and leadership scenarios in small group discussions, role-play and "hands-on" activities.

On the last day of training, the graduating class "passes in review" for their final evaluation. However, this evaluation takes place with the Commanding Officer of Officer Training Command Newport, Director of Officer Indoctrination School, and families and friends of the graduating class.

Upon graduation, OIS graduates relocate to their duties in hospitals, clinics, ships, Marine units and academia.

NAVSTA Public Affairs Staff

Officer Indoctrination School (OIS) will graduate Class 04090 in ceremonies today at Capt. Howard N. Kay Hall, at Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport. The ceremony, to include a traditional pass in review, will begin at 9 a.m.

Capt. David LaBarbera, Director, Fleet, Initial Surface Warfare Officer and International Training Department at Surface Warfare Officers School Command, will serve as reviewing officer and guest speaker.

The ceremonies culminate five weeks of intense naval indoctrination for the 36 newly commissioned officers for service in the Medical Corps (MC), Medical Service Corps (MSC), Nurse Corps (NC), Judge Advocate General Corps (JAGC), Dental Corps (DC) and nuclear power field.

The curriculum included military bearing and appearance, naval law, naval history, career development, physical readiness, damage control, personnel administration, Navy policies and personal excellence. Additionally, students participate in the one-week Division Officer Leadership Course that prepares them for their responsibilities as naval leaders.

MORE THAN 200 runners jump off the starting line last Friday for the 72nd running of the 5k By The Bay, sponsored by the Surface Navy Association.

Mentzer 'threepeats' in 5k

By RICHARD ALEXANDER

Navalog editor

Lt. John Mentzer, on the Division Officer Training staff at the Surface Warfare Officers School Command, successfully defended his 5k

Mentzer

By the Bay race title for the third consecutive time in two years last Friday.

Mentzer, with a time of 16:08 led 210 other runners ranging in age from the teens to 50-plus in the 72nd running of the 3.1 mile race. Brendan Cashman, who was second in last June's race, placed second again last Friday. The first woman to finish was Carolyn Sion in 22:47.

Mentzer won the race last June in 15:46, and last October.

About 30 naval reservists attached to Inshore Boat Unit 21 (IBU21), mobilized in September, ran together and finished together. Two members dressed like action heroes, Aquaman and Spiderman. Several men pushed jogging strollers in the race.

The race is sponsored by the Newport Chapter of the Surface Navy Association (SNA).

The results:

Overall winner

Male: John Mentzer, 16:08; female, Carolyn Sion, 22:47
17 and under

Male: Phillip Treat, 23:01; Connor Burns, 23:03;
Female: Elizabeth Treat, 25:25.

Schmidle surprises Rhodes fleet

ON NARRAGANSETT BAY— In a night filled with the unexpected, Paul Schmidle surprised the competition with a decisive win in the final race of the Rhodes 19 Fall Race Series on Oct. 6.

Dan Sullivan and Mike McDonald also put in impressive performances, taking second and third, respectively, and beating both of the usual winners Herb Rommel and Mike Incze.

Sailing course P1 with a fresh south-southwest breeze,

Schmidle took the lead soon after the start, and dominated the field for the remainder of the race. The remaining 10 boats enjoyed good winds and numerous tacking duels with many position changes, for a fun night of racing to end the series.

Incze, one point ahead of Rommel going into this race, took first place overall for the Fall Series, with second place going to Rommel.

Schmidle's win boosted him ahead of Seth Moyer in the standings, giving him third place overall in a great Fall Series, which averaged 12 boats racing per night.

Final race results for Oct. 6

NAPS field goal stuns Yale in OT

By ENSIGN S. BRAZIER

NAPS Football Staff

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — The Naval Academy Prep School football squad stretched its record to 6-1 last Sunday, by taking a nail-biter against Yale University's junior varsity, 30-27, in overtime.

On their first drive, the Bulldogs marched to the Rams' 29 yard line, but fumbled. NAPS defensive back Rashawn King recovered and ran it back to the 49 yard line.

With a 23-yard scamper by running back Shun White, and the extra point by Jonathon Tigani, the Rams took the lead, 7-0.

Yale was quick to respond. On its next drive, the Bulldogs scored on a four-yard pass.

NAPS opened the second quarter with a 10-yard touchdown run, again by White and the extra point was good.

After two punts by each team, Yale gained possession of the ball again and pushed deep into the Rams' red zone. But at the four-yard line they failed on third down and settled for a 21-yard field goal.

NAPS fumbled to give the Bulldogs another opportunity to put points on the scoreboard. On the first play after the fumble, the Bulldogs completed a 13-yard pass for another touchdown.

The Rams took possession, but on the 14th play coughed up the ball again to Yale.

The Bulldogs gained possession on their own 15-yard line. But on the third play of the Bulldog drive, NAPS linebacker Clint Sovie intercepted Yale's quarterback and was safely escorted to the end zone for another NAPS touchdown. NAPS led, 21-17.

After exchanging punts, Yale regained possession. Yale marched from the 41 yard line and finished with a one-yard touch-down burst.

After a bad punt from the Bulldogs, NAPS got the ball with good field position. Three plays into the drive, White ran for his third touch-down of the day. The run was a 19 yard scamper by the running back.

Tigani converted the extra point to put the Rams up, 27-24

On the last drive of the fourth quarter, the Bulldogs began at their own 26 yard and marched to the Rams' 21 yard line. With three seconds left on the clock, the Bulldogs kicked a 39 yard field goal to send the game to overtime with the score, 27-27.

In the overtime, NAPS' defense dug in. The Bulldogs gained only nine yards on their first three downs. On fourth down with a yard to gain, the Bulldogs were stopped short.

DNA identifies 1864 submariner

CHARLESTON, S.C. (NNS) — The Naval Historical Center's (NHC) Hunley project staff and consultants positively identified Joseph Ridgaway, a Hunley crew member, through DNA testing Sept. 24.

The NHC Hunley staff has been actively working to identify the eight pioneers who manned the craft Feb. 17, 1864, when it became the first successful combat submarine in history.

"Before the DNA match, our only tools in identifying the Hunley crew for their burial was the archaeological, forensic and genealogical data," Warren Lasch, chairman of Friends of the Hunley, said.

In 2001, once the crew's remains were excavated from the submarine, Hunley scientists sent samples of each crew member to the Joint POW/MIA Accounting Command in Hawaii, where the samples were selected for DNA analysis. From there, the samples were sent to the Armed Forces DNA Identification Laboratory (AFDIL).

Navy-wide news

AFDIL extracted mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA) from the samples and laser scanned the DNA sequences. Since then, they have waited for the Hunley scientific team to locate DNA samples from potential descendants to cross reference in hopes of making a match.

"A mother passes mtDNA to her children, meaning mtDNA identification can only be done through direct maternal descendants," said Jackie Raskin-Burns, AFDIL Supervisory DNA Analyst who led the analytical work on the Hunley crew samples.

After extensive historical research, forensic genealogist Linda Abrams was able to locate a maternal descendant.

"When we received the sample, we performed mtDNA typing and the sequence was consistent with one mtDNA sequence obtained from the remains of the Hunley crew," Raskin-Burns said.

The mtDNA sequence was consistent with the crew member who was second-in-command of Hunley and stationed at the seventh crank position: Joseph Ridgaway.

7,600 Sailors ship out with Strike Group

NORFOLK, Va. (NNS) — Nearly 7,600 Sailors left their homeports with the USS Harry S. Truman Carrier Strike Group (HSTCSG) on Oct. 13 in support of the global war on terrorism.

The strike group wrapped up Summer Pulse '04, a groundbreaking exercise involving seven carrier strike groups, in late July. During this exercise, Truman also completed its Composite Training Unit Exercise (COMPTUEX), successfully performing a series of complex training events, which included naval surface fire support training and air-to-ground bombing off the East Coast of the United States.

Commanded by Rear Adm. Michael Tracy, Commander, Carrier Strike Group 10, HSTCSG includes the Norfolk-based aircraft carrier Harry S. Truman with its embarked air wing, Carrier Air Wing (CVW) 3, the Norfolk-based guided-missile cruiser USS Monterey (CG 61), the Norfolk-based guided-missile destroyers USS Barry (DDG 52) and USS Mason (DDG 87), the Groton, Conn.-based fast-attack submarine USS Albuquerque (SSN 706) and the combat logistics ship USNS Arctic (T-AOE 8) from Naval Weapons Station Earle, N.J.

Navy retires AIM-54

PATUXENT RIVER, Md. (NNS) — After 30 years of highly accomplished service, the U.S. Navy retired its first long-range air-to-air missile, the AIM-54 Phoenix, Sept. 30..

One of the world's most technologically advanced tactical missiles, the AIM-54 Phoenix was the first operational radar-guided air-to-air missile that could be launched in multiple numbers against different targets from an aircraft, making the Phoenix the Navy's main air defense weapon.
